Buying Backlinks

This post was written by Jossef Salman

Buying backlinks will become your only solution to get higher Google ranking, we are talking about actual search engine ranking.

After 5 years on the internet marketing business, and really trying every method to generate traffic to my website, starting by using the worthless traffic exchange programs, to email marketing and classified ads and so on. Without feeling I started to invest money on those useless traffic generation methods.

But only after I started to get traffic from Google organic searches I started to realize the power of targeted and real value traffic. The only traffic you and every internet marketer need to target and attract is organic search engines traffic.

And it's not that hard, not at all.

I want to share here my own experience as the owner of the Arabian-affiliate.com website (The Home Business Guide Website). You can see from the domain that when I started this website I had no experience what so ever in the SEO, and internet marketing, otherwise I will choose a targeted domain name.

When I learned the basics of search engine optimization, I knew the power of backlinks, and how backlinks will increase your actual search engine ranking. But then I had no money to invest in buying backlinks or investing on any link building software or service. So my only solution was to manually build all my backlinks.

Starting with article marketing, and creating content on free blogging platforms and social media sites, I started to see increase on the page rank parameter (PR parameter Google use to give websites) but it did not give any real value on my actual ranking, Then I was targeting a less competitive search term "Make Money With Affiliate Programs".

Building backlinks is a very hard task; you can spend countless hours on link exchange requests, or blog commenting or any other link building strategies. But when finally I realized that also time worth money and I am spending a lot of time on manual link building without reaching any actual results I decided to move to the next level.

With a good help from a friend I reached a top secret service called unique article wizard (It was a top secret on 2009, but now it's very popular). I started to use it and spend all my time on this service and started to see real results and fast. It is really an amazing service.

After reaching high Google ranking and even first result for the search term I targeted, I started to see the power of being on Google first page, so I changed the search term I was targeting to more competitive search term that could bring me more traffic. Now I am targeting some high competitive search terms like "Home business" "Make Money Online" "make money from home" and "Affiliate marketing"

But I also know that to really succeed with those search terms I need to start buying backlinks and invest on my link building more and more.

Don't ever fool yourself that you can manually build link and compete with other PR4 and higher websites, that you can do it without buying backlinks or hire a good link building service. Not even if you have a powerful link building tools and software.

When I started buying backlinks, I started the wrong way, Like going directly to websites the sells backlinks. Most of them are flagged and could make more damage to your ranking than improve your ranking, Some like automatic backlinks could be a good link exchange platform and you can also buy backlinks from but also you need to review each page you are getting backlink from, and un-approve any page that have too many links on it.

But my best choice so far to buying backlinks is link Emperor, If you have read the latest post (Guaranteed Google Ranking), you have noticed Nancy's (The admin of this blog) excitement about link emperor.

I have used personally almost all the tools used by Link Emperor Staff, like SEnuke. Those tools are good to blast your backlinks, and get high quantity of backlinks, but also those tools require too much time (at least for me) to manage and operate. I really have problems with time.

So I joined Link Emperor to test their service, it's not exactly buying backlinks, it's more like hiring others to build backlinks from you and hiring other freelancers who already own a link building software to use their software for you.

You can see some of my results by searching on Google for the terms "home business", "Make Money From Home", "network marketing opportunities". And see where Arabian-affiliate.com is ranking. And also be sure to see what kind of websites and domains I am competing with.

The power of link emperor is that it builds backlinks using different tools and strategies that diverse the quality of backlinks you are getting.

Now I have read some of the comments on the last post, and noticed that some webmasters are skeptic from using such automated link building services, some think about getting banned or accused of spamming. If this kind of link building can get you banned, believe me I will be the first one to use it against my competitors. If it's the case webmasters could use such a service to kill their competition online and SEO will start to be an ugly practice.

Others talked about natural link building, while I am sure their own manual link building does not look natural at all. When you focus on blog commenting only, that's not natural, if your backlinks come from article directories only that's not natural and when your links come only from forums profile and forum posting that's not natural.

Natural backlinks mean that your linking are coming from different pages and different websites with different page rank. Natural mean that you are getting high amount of PR0 backlinks and fewer PR3-5-6... backlinks.
