Push Button Extreme Is A Scam

Who knows me know that I love network marketing, and I have tested a lot of network marketing opportunities.

And I want here to share with you my last test.

I was a member with Push Button Extreme for more than 6 months now, and from the beginning I had bad impression about this opportunity, for these reasons

It does not offer any valuable product that worth the money you are paying.

It claims that it has some kind of matrix and you will be paid by the effort other members are making and you will get a share in the profits; which appears to be entirely false claim. And it does not provide any thing similar to that.

But because I know the owners of this opportunity and a member of other opportunities they have launched, and honestly the other programs they have is great absolutely great. So when they launched Push Button extreme I was among the firsts to know about the launch and I joined hoping they are having a good opportunity a gain.

But they did not, not this time.

I really wanted to leave this program from month one, but like always I wanted some answers first so I contacted the support team and asked them for their claim of cycling and making money without recruiting.

Their answer was shocking, they told me to focus on selling the product not the cycling, and cycling will be determined by your effort to recruit new members.

On the administration panel they showed me a message telling me that I need to have 57 new members in order to cycle.

I started to test the promotion and how will people react to this kind of opportunity.

It was amazing how easy people will be attracted to these kinds of profit sharing opportunities, after having two victims of my own I stopped all promotions. And even after having two paying members on my downline I was still having the same message that I need to get 57 people in order to cycle.

I canceled my account, I admit now that they were successful to make me pay for 6 month but I really thanks god that my two members canceled at their first month. Still I am responsible of scamming them.

I have no records who they were and I am very sorry for that.

And by the way, their product is worthless and useless, you can get it for free everywhere on the net or you can even do it yourself very easy.

So guys and girls, be careful.
